

CHILDREN-AT-RISK IMPACT FUND

DID YOU KNOW

320 million people in Asia live on less than USD2.15 a day?

THE ISSUE

Children everywhere deserve to grow up in loving, safe environments. However, children living in extreme poverty face unique challenges.

Poverty creates significant stress for families, making it difficult to provide stable and nurturing environments. This economic hardship forces families to prioritise survival over education and health, putting children at risk of malnutrition, poor health, and lack of educational opportunities. This constant struggle can sometimes lead to child abuse and neglect as parents and caregivers face overwhelming pressures. Additionally, children in impoverished situations are at a higher risk of exploitation, trafficking, and mental health issues.

Southeast Asia comprises countries with varying levels of economic development, from rapidly industrialising countries like Malaysia and Thailand, to less developed countries such as Cambodia and Laos.

Economic inequality is stark, with many living below the poverty line. Rapid urbanisation has led to megacities, bringing opportunities as well as challenges like urban poverty, inadequate housing, and limited essential services. Migration, common within and across borders, often results in children being separated from their families or living in vulnerable conditions as undocumented migrants.

Traditional norms and cultural practices can perpetuate harmful behaviors and discrimination against children, especially girls. There is often a reluctance to report cases of abuse and exploitation due to stigma, fear of reprisal, and lack of awareness about children's rights. The region is also prone to natural disasters such as typhoons, earthquakes, and floods, which exacerbate vulnerabilities. Displacement caused by these disasters also often leads to increased risks of exploitation, trafficking, and disruption of education.

This Impact Fund enables the continued development of work and collaboration between five expert local child protection organisations across Cambodia, Malaysia, the Philippines and Thailand, focusing on areas where children are the most vulnerable.

Statistics reveal the dire circumstances children face in the region:

CAMBODIA

50% of children have endured severe physical abuse, with 1 in 20 having experienced sexual abuse

40%

40% of people live just above the poverty line, with 16% of children living below it

THAILAND

10,000

children were treated in hospitals due to abuse in 2022, with most from sexual abuse

60,000

children living with their parents in construction site camps face challenges in accessing essential services and often reside in slum-like conditions

PHILIPPINES

>17,600

child abuse cases were recorded in 2023

MALAYSIA

>5,000

cases of child abuse and neglect handled annually by the Social Welfare Department

KEY PRIORITIES

1

Child Protection support for vulnerable children and victims of abuse:

This focus area is dedicated to creating a secure and nurturing environment for every child, helping them recover and thrive.

This includes immediate protection from threats, temporary shelter to ensure safety, as well as professional emotional support for victims of abandonment, extreme neglect, and severe physical or sexual abuse.

Case Management support for children and families:

This area focuses on holistic case management to ensure that each child receives support tailored to his or her unique needs. These can include access to education, healthcare services, and financial assistance, as well as reviews for legal and specialised mental health support.

In this work, a dedicated case manager will journey with the child and family. As part of the case management and development of action plans for the child, families are also involved to ensure that the child gets the care they need to heal, build resilience, and thrive.

Outreach and Awareness-building on child rights and protection with key stakeholders:

This focus area is crucial for educating and mobilising the community to identify at-risk children and recognise signs of abuse and neglect. Increased awareness allows more people to detect and report concerns, leading to timely interventions.

These awareness-building efforts also help individuals to learn about available support services and encourages families to seek help before problems escalate.
